

Motherhouse

Many of the professed Sisters at the Motherhouse handle the administration of the entire congregation. Others teach classes to the Novices and Juniorate Sisters, as well as weekday and Sunday Catechism classes to the parish children. A few Sisters oversee the construction of our new dormitory building.

Juniorate

Some of the Juniorate Sisters are taking classes to prepare them for teaching. Others are being trained to care for the older Sisters, to work in our religious goods company, and to help with the maintenance of the Motherhouse.

White Bear Lake, Minnesota

During a recent Mass Appreciation week at St. Anne's Academy, the Sisters gave the students explanations about the prayers and ceremonies of Holy Mass. Priests of the Congregation of St. Pius V also gave talks to the children and showed them the vestments and sacred vessels.

Melville, New York

To honor Pope St. Pius V, the patron of their school, the students on Long Island participated in contests including different events from the saint's life. The younger children colored pictures or made models of a miracle from his life, while the high school contest involved writing about this illustrious pope.
